

Wednesday, August 11, 2010

Blackstone Goes to Series

Prairie Dog Film + Television is currently in production on 8 one-hour episodes of Blackstone for APTN and Showcase. Inspired by its highly successful TV pilot, Blackstone is a one-hour dramatic TV series that will premiere in early 2011 on APTN and Showcase.

Intense, compelling and confrontational, Blackstone is an un-muted exploration of power and politics on an Indian reserve. "Blackstone is relevant and relational in an Aboriginal story world, with universal themes and conflicts", says Creator Ron E. Scott.

The series begins with Chief Stoney (Carmen Moore) struggling in her new role. After losing re-election, Andy Fraser (Eric Schweig) continues his questionable behaviour by attempting to remove incriminating files and orchestrating an alliance to replace the new Chief. Gail Stoney (Michelle Thrush) is still in mourning over the tragic death of her daughter Natalie (Roseanne Supernault), and ends up in the hospital. Outspoken councillor Victor Merasty (Nathaniel Arcand) struggles to have a relationship with his daughter in the city, while fighting for what he believes in. The community of Blackstone becomes divided as police are allowed to investigate, then prosecute in a child abuse case. Life in the city serves as a continuous temptation, as the new generation fights to create lasting and substantial change from within the community.

Blackstone is produced by Prairie Dog Film + Television in association with Aboriginal Peoples Television Network, Showcase and Canwest Broadcasting, with the assistance of the Government of Alberta, Alberta Media Fund, with the participation of the Canada Media Fund and with the assistance of The Canadian Film or Video Production Tax Credit.

For more information, visit www.blackstonetheseries.com

PRAIRIE DOG
 FILM+TELEVISION