Season three of Blackstone, a dramatic TV series set at the fictional community of Blackstone First Nation, is now airing on APTN in Canada and Maori Television in New Zealand.

Produced by Edmonton's Prairie Dog Film + Television, the raw series tackles universal themes of domestic violence, criminal justice, child and family welfare, the devastating consequences of addiction, and the long process of healing and reconciliation.

"It may be our most explosive season yet and we look forward to having our viewers experience it," says Executive Producer, Writer and Director Ron E. Scott.

Blackstone has won 20 awards including two Gemini Awards, and received dozens more nominations.

Jesse Szymanski is Producer, and Damon Vignale is Writer / Producer on the series.
